LOCAL GOVERNMENT
LGPRO
PROFESSIONALS
THE LEADING VOICE

PROGRAM OVERVIEW

The LGPro Executive Leadership Program (XLP) is designed exclusively to equip and support executives in Local Government, including Chief Executive Officers, Directors, Senior Managers and aspiring CEOs.

One of the most challenging career transitions in Local Government is moving from an operational focus to one requiring a strategic whole-of-council approach to leading and managing the full obligations of a Council.

While the role of the Chief Executive Officer (CEO) in Local Government is challenging, it is also highly rewarding for those who have the right mix of skills, experience, training and preparedness to lead in this uniquely diverse and dynamic environment. But this can sometimes be a difficult and daunting pursuit especially for executives recently appointed or for those who are new to the Local Government sector.

Developed for and by senior executives, the LGPro XLP is unique in addressing the particular nature and challenges of leadership in Local Government. The program presents an invaluable opportunity for professionals to expand and develop skills and knowledge so that as leaders of the Local Government sector, they are confident and capable.

A SECTOR RELEVANT APPROACH

LGPro has developed the XLP in close consultation with current and retired senior executives from across the sector, together with leading, independent education experts and critical stakeholders.

The program is informed by the results of the LGPro CEO Development Survey which examines the behaviours and attitudes of current and former Local Government CEOs, executives and aspiring executives with a view to determining the skills, traits, knowledge and experience required to be a successful senior executive in Local Government in Victoria.

Key findings of the CEO Development Survey were:

- The most important skills identified by CEOs were 'ethical accountability' (32.2%), 'understanding of the principles of leadership' (30.5%) and 'ability to work well with councillors' (28.8%).
- The most important skills identified by non-CEO executives were 'strategic thinking' (37.3%), 'understanding of the principles of leadership' (32.8%) and 'ability to work well with councillors' (30.3%).
- Approximately one-quarter of both CEOs and non-CEO executives identified 'good governance and people management skills' as new skills that will be required to lead in Local Government in the future (27.1% and 24.5% respectively).
- The other commonly identified attribute was 'social, political and economic awareness' (20.3% and 16.2% respectively).
- 88% of CEOs and 80% of potential CEOs identified mentoring as one of the best ways to develop the skills and knowledge required to become an effective CEO in Local Government

PROGRAM STRUCTURE

CRITICAL RELATIONSHIPS

LGPro supports participants during and beyond the program through the establishment of 'one on one' professional development relationships which provide participants with the opportunity to connect with others who have walked a similar path. These critical relationships may endure beyond the life of the program. These relationships will include:

MENTORING	STRATEGIC ADVISORS	ALUMNI
Participants establish mentoring relationships with executives external to the Local Government sector. LGPro work closely with Leadership Victoria and other organisations to determine suitable mentor candidates and, in consultation with each participant, to agree on the most suitable fit. Mentors are encouraged to actively participate at intervals during the program.	Strategic advisors have been appointed by LGPro and are available to participants seeking unbiased, expert advice or opinion on task focused issues. The advisors are reputable former chief executives from within Local Government.	The program provides 'space' for participants to connect with peers from across the sector and to build networks for support that endure beyond the course of the program. Participants, past and present, are encouraged to establish syndicate groups to address specific issues relating to professional development and career.

A UNIQUE LEARNING EXPERIENCE

Learning Approach and Methods

LGPro engages an approach to learning in which participants offer their own expertise and contribute to an environment where knowledge is actively constructed and shared rather than passively received. A range of learning methods and professional development tools and techniques are employed including 360 degree feedback, case studies, fishbowl and café conversations, playbacks and other practical activities. Self reflection points have been built into the program in order for participants to explore and challenge their own values, beliefs, philosophies and prejudices and to re-evaluate where they are and where they want to be.

Facilitation Team

A qualified and experienced Lead Facilitator oversees the program and delivers some content and anecdotes where their expertise allows. For each module, the Lead Facilitator is joined by a Guest Contributor, generally a recently retired Local Government CEO, who offers experience and 'stories from the field' to ground the program within a Local Government context.

Program Streams

XLP is one program delivered across two streams. Core content is delivered in plenary sessions however at times, dedicated streams, may be introduced to provide 'space' for open and frank dialogue with peers at both a CEO level and a middle to senior manager level.

Program Format

XLP comprises 7.5 workshop days delivered at intervals over a five month period to provide the opportunity to reinforce learning on the job. The program opens with a full day introductory session and dinner in which participants are introduced to the broad concepts of the program and get to know each other. Each of the three modules is then delivered as a two day, overnight residential experience. Between 3 to 6 months following the program, participants reconvene for a half day session and dinner to share their post program experiences and to refresh and sustain the learning.

PROGRAM KEY BENEFITS

Participants will:

- Develop thinking into the challenges faced by CEOs by drawing from firsthand accounts and case studies delivered by experienced senior practitioners.
- Gain a practical appreciation of governance and the statutory requirements a CEO must abide by.
- Improve critical interpersonal skills for engaging and leading people.
- Gain an appreciation of how others see them.
- Gain confidence in their ability to set goals and achieve them.
- Understand the correlation between accountable, ethical leadership and cultivate a positive organisational culture.
- Gain a greater appreciation of leadership strengths and how to take advantage of them.
- Fine-tune political acumen and strategic foresight.
- Understand the critical importance of mindfulness and how it can be achieved.

PROGRAM TESTIMONIALS

Engaging, Enlightening, Inspiring...The quality of the XLP provided insights and learnings that positively impacted on the way I understand, perceive and respond. I urge all interested Local Government executives to attend but you must be committed, attend every session and challenge yourself. Remember: the learnings are in the uncomfortable moments.
*Tim Tamlin, CEO,
South Gippsland Shire Council*

Outstanding! Well crafted and delivered by talented people. Extremely relevant and specific for Local Government.
Peter Utri, Manager Organisational Performance, Banyule City Council

Extremely worthwhile and I would recommend it to any senior managers in Local Government.
Andrew Port, General Manager Corporate Services, Nillumbik Shire Council

Just starting out in your leadership journey or well on the way, new to the Local Government sector or an old hand, young or of more mature years - none of that is relevant to what this excellent course can offer to your personal, professional, and especially leadership, development.
Marilyn Hearney, Director, Corporate Planning & Finance, Monash City Council
